AppBrain for AFCRT Round Timer Pro AppBrain is the place to find the latest and best apps, as well as the most popular free and paid apps for PC, Android, and iOS. In his farewell to us, he leaves us this parting gift: A reminder of how much we've been able to do with a relatively humble budget and about as many parts as a phone number. The words "beneath the bonnet" are taken from the UK's renowned Daily Telegraph, but the magic happens in the Isle of Man, where a tiny island nation turned out one of the world's most-wanted cars, the Ariel Atom, in the face of dire financial constraints. Five years ago, the Isle of Man launched a competition that would eventually award the right to make an electric vehicle powered by a car motor taken from the world's most-wanted car, the Ariel Atom. The two-seat scooter-like vehicle (pictured above) doesn't make any noise, and the only sound you'll hear if you're in the middle of a busy city is the unceasing chirping of the birds, but the Atom can go for up to 140 miles on a single charge of its lithium-ion battery. The Atom is an open-source car, meaning anyone can read the schematics. The most recent version of the Atom we've seen contains an electric motor borrowed from the Ariel Torq, and a custom-made Lithium Ion battery produced by Manx-based technology firm Morrish Industries. The battery takes five hours to charge, and is rated for up to 300 charging cycles (the company's website claims the battery has
