Fashion in the third millennium: an analysis of the state of the art in historic trends. The following brief comments provide a historic perspective on fashion in the third millennium. This paper is divided into three sections: the first presents an overview of historical influences, fashion models, and the possible fate of the man and society in the year 2000; the second focuses on the main current trends in fashion; and the third tries to analyze the economic and social consequences of the present trends. The rationale of this final section is based on an analysis of the last six decades, especially with regard to the status of men. The current unrest in the industrialized world has created new options for the fashion industry 570a42141b
