in treating distal radial fractures]. To investigate the effectiveness of double-row fixator in the treatment of distal radial fractures. From January 2009 to January 2011, a double-row fixator was used in 22 cases of distal radial fractures with a mean age of 39 years. The patients were followed up clinically and radiographically for a mean of 3 years and 3 months. The results were evaluated according to the Weber-Cech grading system. All patients were obtained a satisfactory results with Union times of 4 to 7 months. The patients improved from D1.8 to D4.1 and from A3.5 to A4.3 according to the Weber-Cech grading system. Plate based fixation is an important means of treating distal radial fractures. It is particularly valuable for the
