- Key Macro is user-defined field of private key, e.g. an hash value of 1024/2048/512/1024/2048/1024/2048 bytes - Key Macro is defined as another key's value, so multiple key macros can be defined in a key file; - When defining the key macro, its name need to be delimited with ','
Usage: = Generate: Generate key

from a private key file or set the key macro from a private key file.

Copy: Copy the generated key to a private key file

Delete: Delete the private key file

Import: Import the private key file (macro fields are ignored)

Export: Export the private key file

Example: Copy "1" to `key_macro_name="my_key_macro"`

Import `key_macro_name="my_key_macro"`

When you import, it's ignore the macro fields in the key.

Log: log all communication actions with SSL/non-SSL

Query: query all

information for the key or key macro Delete: delete the key

Public Key Generator: This

function can be used for private key generation. For example, the private key can be generated by hashing a large number or text.

Public Key Import: This function is used to import the public key and its private key, so the private key can be generated from it.

Example: Generate a key and its private key with the key macro

"my_key_macro". Import the private key. Install: To install the program run it as administrator and follow the on-screen instructions. After installation there will be an option "Create key" in the menu, where you can set the required values for the "key macro" field. e.g. `my_key_macro=sha1(512)+my_key_macro=sha1(2048)+my_key_macro=sha1(1024)` i.e. you can generate and set several key macros. For example you can generate a key from a private key with one macro, then a second key from another private key file with another macro. Do you want to access a foreign IP address in the network in your private network?

---

And you want to access Internet?
