Created by sculptor Jon Bryant and architectural designer Brian Fay, the 1:5-life-size bronze sculpture is on display until April 27, when it goes on display at the Hale Napili campus of the University of Hawaii. Bryant and Fay said they first conceived the statue in 2007 and got it off the ground with the help of some friends from the Big Island community who loaned them the money to build it. "It's a sculpture that's well-loved by the local community," said Bryant. The 31-year-old native of California said he grew up fascinated by the myths and folklore of Hawaii and says the statue "broke the mold" in terms of a Hawaiian cultural presence in the city. "You see pictures of Kualaka'i, the warrior goddess, and Sammamishhi, the prankster, and you never see the monkey god," Bryant said, referring to the common Hawaiian gods. "We wanted to modernize that and show more modern aspects of the culture." "I'm a big history buff so I researched a lot of the stories of the local gods and the legends," said Fay, who's also a junior at the University of Hawaii-Manoa. "I found, in Hawaii, there are a lot more legends than most places in the world. And so I'd ask people if they had a story to tell about Yachati." In Hawaiian, yachati means the "war god," and Fay said he was surprised to learn how many people in the community have a favorite story about Yachati. "I'd ask them what their favorite was and they'd have their favorite," he said. The most common and oft-told story about Yachati, according to the website of Hawaiian Storyland, is how he helped avoid an impending earthquake. "There was a d41b202975

 Leather $241.00 Notify me when this product is available: Qty Here at GoGearRaceway, we strive to make our customers lives easier. Our mission is to provide the highest quality products at the lowest possible prices, while helping you make the most of your leisure, health, and gear dollars. What could be better than that! We've been getting a lot of questions regarding our greenback wallets and skinny knives. With 70% off the Skin Leather, you get a great value. LEATHER! Remember those? Leather was the best. In the 90's, the easiest way to classify a product, it was Hard or Soft, and in general, a purchase made with a social conscience had to contain some form of Vegetable-based leather. Fruit leather was limited by its unsuitability for holding dollar bills and things with a nibble. Skin leather became a thing. People's thinking has changed and who wants the best thing for the best price? Not us! We love leather, and the more leather you have in a product, the better. We think our customers get what they pay for. So with that in mind, we've partnered with the best menagerie of the animal kingdom on Earth. By "best" we mean, "tastiest. Most durable." CASUAL BELTS From the ruggedness of rawhide jackets, comfortable waistcoat and casual pants, to the discerning dress corduroy and divans, and the more rugged Black Leather, Skin leather is versatile and appropriate for any life occasion, any age, or any nationality. The fetishizing of leather has gone back to its roots in the form of its skin. Before the advent of synthetic, and even before synthetics were widely used and available, we came up with a simple idea. Do you REALLY need a $1000 belt to look like the slick ish workers in the hip revolution of the early 90's? You're still not alone, and we have a solution.We specialize in providing a range of skin leather ready to go. Whether you want it black, brown, or tan, we've got you covered. We use oil-based pigments to achieve a beautiful, warm, and even surface. We won't tell you what it looks like until it's dry, but we promise, our chefs are the best. At that point, it will be time
