CALGARY, ALBERTA (January 14, 2019) - Rielly

Search + Rescue and Search Dogs have received a grant of $75,000 from Search Dogs Canada Foundation to support its continued humanitarian work. Rielly Search + Rescue has been in service since 2002 and is the longest continually active search and rescue service in the province of Alberta. The funding is earmarked for the organisation's various programs, including Hurricane Yolanda (2014), the national Search Dogs project and Disaster Assistance to Children. "We are extremely thankful to the Foundation for this grant support. This will provide us with the additional resources necessary to continue our efforts and help those less fortunate," said Paul Hueso, Volunteer Coordinator at Rielly Search + Rescue. The organization relies solely on donations to get its work done. "A grant from the Search Dogs Canada Foundation helps us to do our rescue work year-round in support of children in need. We are very grateful to the organization for continuing their support and look forward to future partnerships with them," added Hueso. Rielly Search + Rescue is a non-profit volunteer-run organisation that was established to continue the search and rescue efforts of the Canadian Pacific Railway at the cost of $75,000 in 2002. Founded by the community of Rielly, the rescue service provides search, rescue and recovery support from Alberta to New Brunswick. This organisation is committed to the following - to provide rescue of lost children and pets by participating in search and rescue operations, - to promote the important work that Search and Rescue volunteers do, - to assist victims of natural disasters, - to raise the profile of Search and Rescue and support of volunteer search and rescue efforts through the promotion of Search Dogs Inc. When issues arise, they are looked after by an experienced team of social workers, as well as by the regional office. This team of people are highly skilled in their work and will work with you to ensure you are supported and assisted. "Above all, that is their job," said Rick Pym, Social Worker with Child and Family Services. "Not a single person in a position of authority makes it their mission to 'reward' and put money in the employee's pocket, as they should. Instead, they are there to ensure that all employees and the families they serve are supported and valued. We have that same mandate here." The Child and Family Social Worker team has also created an option where a social worker can work from home, enabling them to keep their jobs
