2. Load an image into Photoshop. I generally use an 8-by-10-inch (20-by-25-cm) piece of paper of some kind, like white printer paper. I print out an image I want to work with and then load it into Photoshop. I usually do this on my scanner. (You can scan images directly into Photoshop, if you prefer, but I find that I spend more time in Photoshop managing my images after I scan them.) When you open Photoshop, you should start by opening a new document. This enables you to create new images. After opening a document, select File > New. The Open dialog box opens, as shown in Figure 3-1, where you can browse for an image to open. Select a file to open and click Open. If the file is a JPEG, then when you select the file, you see a dialog box similar to the one shown in Figure 3-2. Choose whether you want to open the image with an embedded profile (if it has one) or you want to start with an empty layer. From there, the file opens in Photoshop. Figure 3-1: Open a new document with the Open dialog box. Figure 3-2: Open an image with the Open dialog box. To load a different image into a new document, select File > Open. You see the Open dialog box (refer to Figure 3-1) to browse for a file. Select a file to open, and then click Open. 3. Open the Layers panel. Click Window > Layers to open the Layers panel (refer to Figure 3-1). 4. If you are opening a new image, place the color grid on the image. To open a new image, drag the color grid (see Figure 3-3) to the image to make a color grid. The grid automatically snaps to the edges of the canvas, so you don't have to draw it. Figure 3-3: You can drag a color grid to a new document to place it in Photoshop. 5. Create a new layer. In Photoshop, you're given a choice of layers: no layers, one layer, or as many as you want. By default, you're given a single layer. To create a new layer, click Layer

Chrysler possibly cutting more production in North America Chrysler said Tuesday it is reviewing plans for future production of the Jeep Liberty and Dodge Durango minivans and the Dodge Dart compact car in North America. CEO Sergio Marchionne told reporters at the North American International Auto Show in Detroit that the review will be "carefully considered" to determine the company's future strategy. The automaker said the cuts in production could range from 10 to 15 percent. Chrysler said production might remain at the current level, but if it does go down, the reductions would not be on a month-to-month basis. Chrysler is trying to persuade U.S. regulators to approve a plan to exit the 10-year-old, $50 billion U.S. government bailout that saved the company and its bankrupt Italian parent. The automaker said it hopes for approval of a plan by the end of the year. U.S. government officials are holding up Chrysler's request for a $1.5 billion federal loan guarantee to build a new sport utility vehicle and a mid-size pickup truck in a bid to open other routes for Chrysler. The automaker has said it believes it could get the necessary government guarantees if it builds the vehicles overseas or out of the United States. But the government's position is to help companies that are building in the U.S. The outcome of the review is unknown. The automaker could decide to cut even more production, introduce a new version of the Jeep Grand Cherokee or Dodge Durango minivans and the Dodge Dart, or simply discontinue the vehicles. "There is still a lot of emotion around this," Marchionne said. "The uncertainty has a lot of people a little bit nervous... so we would like to settle that first before we even start to do some of the stuff that we're going to do." The automaker warned of a possible 2008 financial loss of $1 billion to $1.5 billion, and said its market share for the second quarter, the last full period of the year, has dropped to the mid-20s from its peak of 40 percent in 2004. The automaker said it would likely ask for a $1.8 billion loan guarantee to build the sport utility vehicle and $1 billion for a new truck, which it plans to introduce in the fourth quarter of 2008. It gave no specifics about the vehicle.Press Photos: NY

Q: Do  $d$ -dependent subadditivity and  $d$ -additivity hold for infinity? Let  $(X, d)$  and  $(Y, d')$  be two metric spaces, and let  $f : X \rightarrow \mathbb{R}$  be a proper (lower semi-continuous in the complemented sense) bounded function. For every  $x \in X$  let  $d_x = \sup\{f(y) : y \in B(x, 1)\}$ , where  $B(x, 1)$  is the open ball in  $X$  of radius 1 and centered at  $x$ . Let  $d(x, X) = \inf\{d_x : x \in X\}$ . Prove that  $d$  is a metric. Proof. If  $x \neq y$ ,  $d(x, y) \geq d_x > 0$ . Suppose that  $d(x, y) = 0$ . Then  $d_x = d_y$  and  $x = y$ . A: Hint: if  $d(x, y) = 0$  then  $d_x = d_y$  so... Edit: For  $n \geq 1$  use the fact that  $B(x, 1+1/n) \subset B(x, 1)$  to see that  $d_x \leq d_{x, 1/n}$ . For  $n \geq 1$  let  $r_n = d_{x, 1/n}$ . Then  $r_n \geq d_{x, 1/n} = d_x$  for all  $n \geq 1$ . So  $r_n \leq d_x$  for all  $n \geq 1$ . Let  $r_n = x$  for  $n \geq 1$ . Then the sequence  $(r_n)$  is nondecreasing and bounded above by  $d_x$ . By the usual  $\liminf$  (or  $\lim$ ) argument,  $r_n \rightarrow r$  where  $r = d_x$ . Now  $r = 0$  because  $d$  is lower semicontinuous. But the lower semicontinuity of  $d$  and continuity of  $d$  on  $X$  imply that  $d_{x, 1/n} \rightarrow d_x$  as  $n$
