Liver transplantation is the only effective treatment in patients with biliary atresia. Nevertheless, there are well-identified situations in which liver transplantation is considered inappropriate. Idiopathic portal hypertension is a rare liver disease and portopulmonary vascular malformations are the main cause of death. However, the role of liver transplantation in these patients is under debate because there is no consensus on the best treatment approach. The aim of this article is to discuss the indications of orthotopic liver transplantation in these two specific diseases. Pages Sunday, November 21, 2011 Blogging While Pregnant: Exercise, Play & Nutrition There are a few guidelines on what you should be doing while pregnant. 1. YOU SHOULD NOT BE WORKING OUT PRIOR TO 28 WEEKS. If you have already been working out before this point, then you may be comfortable with the amount of exercise you are doing and how your body is feeling. However, if you are experiencing any symptoms or you feel as though you are uncomfortable doing an exercise routine, stop as soon as possible. This includes working out in a high-intensity and hard-hitting manner. If you feel as though your workout is harming your body, then you should consult your doctor and make sure you are doing the right exercises for your pregnancy.

2. YOU SHOULD NOT BE WORKING OUT AFTER 29 WEEKS OF PREGNANCY. This is because any form of exercise, such as running, biking, swimming, etc. can trigger contractions or cause you to bleed more. Also, many
