Specific Objectives: (1) To determine the impact of bleeding rates and severity over time and investigate whether this increase in bleeding occurs in association with changing treatment modalities. (2) To determine the impact of increasing age on bleeding rates and severity. (3) To determine the clinical significance of comorbidities in children with hemophilia. (4) To establish a baseline bleeding incidence for children treated at BWH, and compare this bleeding rate to data from the literature. Specific Methods: A population-based registry will be established that includes all BWH patients with hemophilia (A&B) and their medical records. Case ascertainment will utilize ICD-9 codes and medical record reviews. A total of 150 subjects will be enrolled. Their treatment modalities will be classified into low, moderate, and high intensity. Patients will be followed over time to determine the bleeding rates and severity over time. To determine the impact of increasing age on bleeding rates and severity, patients will be grouped into age cohorts. To determine the impact of comorbidities, patients with >1 comorbid condition will be grouped together and compared to patients with no comorbidities. To determine the significance of comorbidities, comorbid conditions will be compared to the number of bleeds occurring during the course of the year. Additional specific methods include: Case ascertainment of all A&B patients with hemophilia and their medical records for the past 5 years. This study is designed as an observational study as compared to a randomized controlled trial. The principal investigator will perform case ascertainment and data collection. Data will be entered into a user defined spreadsheet program. Data will be edited by the principal investigator or study coordinator. Principal investigator will review medical records for missing data and verify the
