In New Tab!Q: how to get qgis 2.6 to recognize 16 bit (decimal) coordinates I am using qgis 2.6.1.2 32 bit on windows 7. Recently after a reboot I noticed that I could no longer use coordinates in decimal format (.5, 1.33,.75 ect). I just get an error box that says the decimal point is not a supported coordinate format. The map is displayed perfectly but I cannot enter coordinates. Is there a setting to change? I checked the integer/real coordinates but did not see any decimal choices. TIA.

A: if you are using decimal degrees as your coordinate system, you can change the units in the Coordinates tab of the general tab for your CRS. --TEST-- Test include path (include in basepath of another) --TEMPLATE-- {% include "../folder/subfolder.php" %} --TEST-- --EXPECT-- --DATA-- return array(); --CONFIG-- return array(); --EXPECT-- Q: How do I navigate to a website running on a Java application server?
