Mistral 2 Follow my advice, it works. Looking good man, I suggest you get some Basic quality 3D skin, some muscle and some makeup. The best quality for this setting is FemiSkin Studio Standard Ed. You can make your own custom 3D skin and give it in a daz3d prop pack but you will have to pay for that. Firstly, I would model something similar to that in 3ds max/maxon. I've designed in that forum and you could use the same example. I would then extrude the top, to give more detail and in the bottom and snap it to a plane, so it's looking like you are sitting, with your feet on the floor. This way you would have a starting base. Next, do a scene set, camera and go to a scene editor. Make sure the camera is orthogonal, set the background to a grey tone and use a neutral colour for the set. In the scene editor, do a place a 3D shape under the camera and position it where you want it. What this will do is it will fill the scene set with the shape, it will have a colour and you can edit the colour, if you want it to be paler or whiter than the background, for example. Make sure the shape is fully hidden, it can be shown later but you could also be hiding it for now. If you plan to render it, you can go to the exposure node and reduce it's exposure, if you want to expose it more, or add a filter. Continue e79caf774b

Auto demand has been on the rise due to the increase in the availability of high quality products which is the main reason why the auto industry has flourished in the country. There are two types of autos one is known as the sports cars and the other is known as the hatchback. The sports cars are the most expensive ones in the market. The manufacturers now offer more after sales services to the customers. Also the auto parts of the sports cars are more expensive than the other types of cars. This gives the company's the high quality parts that are not easily available. The other type of car that is available in the market is the Hatchback. The parts of the Hatchback can be easily available because it is manufactured in a mass scale. The availability of these parts also help the company's to become the leader in this industry by offering both the types of cars. The auto industry began more than 100 years back. The first car that was invented and used was a motorcycle. It was created by a man named Daimler. He came up with this idea after noticing that the cars that he saw were usually driven very recklessly. His idea of a car that could be driven in a more civilized manner was successful. The design of the car was simple and the company that manufactured this was a German company. Since then many changes have taken place in the field. The auto industry has transformed and improved. The auto industry has progressed and the most common type of cars that are manufactured in the market right now are the two wheelers and the four wheelers. Both these types of cars have their own set of advantages. a)The two wheelers offer ease of riding and convenience when compared with the four wheelers. There is no need for a four wheeler to halt on the way if the two wheeler is broken down. b)The two wheeler is more affordable than the four wheelers because of the lower price of the parts required to manufacture the two wheeler. c) The two wheeler is more durable than the four wheelers because there are fewer parts used in the manufacturing of the two wheelers. The four wheeler has a lot
