How to use Faronics Antiexecutable Standard 53 Full Serial Number? Download Faronics Antiexecutable Standard 53 Full Serial Number? Download Faronics Antiexecutable Standard 53 Full Serial Number? get a specific value from URL in angular I am new to angular. I have a url which is suppose to display a grid from a postgresql database. A part of the url looks like this: I have mapped my View to be /findAndSort/: companyld/: sort. I set up my routing like this: const routes: Routes = [ { path: '', component: HomeComponent }, { path: 'findAndSort/: companyld/: sort', component: FindAndSort/Component }]; In the FindAndSort/Component file, I have a function which gets called from a dropdown menu. The function picks up the companyld and sortValue from the url. getSortValue(event) { this.sortValue = event.pathParams.cort; console.log(this.companyld + "::" + this.sortValue); }I am able to call this function but it always logs the company id as the first part of the url and then the sort value as the second part. I would like it to grab the companyld as 89 and sortValue as 2019-09-19. I've looked at lots of examples and I am doing something wrong. Any help would be appreciated. A: Your problem is here: const routes: Routes = [ { path: '', component: HomeComponent }, { path: 'findAndSort/:companyld/:sort', component: FindAndSortComponent }]; In this code, you have used the colon : (colon operator). You should have : after / or use the : unary operator instead. You can read the official documentation about the colon operator here Try something like this: const routes: Routes = [ { path: '', component: HomeComponent }, { path: 'findAndSort/:companyld/:sort', component: FindAndSortComponent }]; In this code, you have used the colon : (colon operator).
