Now, all anyone wants to say is the guy is a douche. Here's a list of things you've probably never heard about the man (unless you're a longtime Star Wars fan). 1. In 1982, he started a publishing company for novels and poetry that he promptly sold to Harper-Collins. 2. In 1999, The New York Times reported he was one of the biggest copyright infringers in the history of film. 3. Lucas has been said to have borrowed liberally from Akira Kurosawa, including a number of characters, and written the story around the beginning and end of the first Star Wars film. 4. He has been accused of ripping off lines from his brother's career, specifically Alan Ladd and Gary Cooper. 5. He once threatened to commit suicide, punching himself in the face several times. 6. He learned the basics of filmmaking from John Ford. 7. He was a nutcase in college who was diagnosed with schizophrenia. 8. He was the first signer of the "E Pluribus Unum" petition at the time of America's independence. 9. He invented and then sold "a rubber movie mask that resembles the shape of the face of Humphrey Bogart." 10. He was the guy who
