Five early phase clinical trials in the area of ADME (Pharmaceutical Bio- and Biotechnical Research), 2 in solid tumors, one in breast cancer and one in urothelial cancer have been conducted since 2001. At the conclusion of the Phase I trial, Sponsor performed secondary analyses. The preclinical development program is designed to explore the design space of the novel oncogene-targeted compound. Results from Phase I studies, pre-clinical studies as well as trends in pathway analyses were used to define the next phase of development with an IND that is submitted to the FDA and CFDA. We are currently entering the Phase II studies.Conventional methods of pest control employ physical and biological methods to control pests. In physical methods of pest control, subjects may include illumination, vibration, stirring, bombardment, emulsion, and the like. Biological methods of pest control may include bioengineered and genetically modified organisms. In insect repellents, the active ingredient generally comprises materials which are toxic to insects, and thus insects are driven away by the odors or toxins. This type of insect repellent is generally beneficial for killing or repelling insects, although it may be less desirable for a homeowner or veterinarian to apply insect repellents directly to animals such as pets. A growing demand exists for rapid, efficient, and effective methods of pest control. Further, because such conventional methods can be costly, inefficient, and unproductive, there remains a need for an effective, low cost, and rapid method of pest control.In 2008, the 'Detroit's moving' saga took another turn after archaeologists discovered the gates of a 10th
