The AUC of the DA was larger than that of the GnRHa-T in predicting the probability of pregnancy failure in 3 months after the LTG administration.](fendo-10-0041-g006){#F5} Discussion {#S4} ========== Here, we identified the cut-off value of the serum DA levels in GnRHa-Ov/LTG cycles that could predict pregnancy failures in 3 months after the LTG administration and pregnancy successes in GnRHa-Ov/Triptorelin cycles as well as we found that the DA levels in GnRHa-Ov/LTG cycles could predict the probability of pregnancy failures in 3 months after the LTG administration. A marker which is one of the most sensitive and specific predictors of the outcome of treatment with CC is the FSH serum level. The FSH receptor is widely expressed in the gonadal tissues and during follicle maturation, it interacts with FSH and ultimately leads to the development of LH receptors and LH-induced maturation of the follicle. Therefore, the serum FSH level could be a good marker for ovulation after stimulation. Serum FSH is a 6d1f23a050
